

Say Crommelin Gave Press Navy Papers

Documents Start Two Navy Probes

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—Navy Capt. John G. Crommelin, embattled critic of the unified defense setup, was revealed tonight to be the man who gave the press confidential documents charging that the navy's morale was shattered and the national defense imperiled.

Crommelin's action, designed to get a hearing for a wide-spread navy feeling that the air force is elbowing the navy too far out of the defense picture, has started two investigations.

The House armed services committee has ordered a hearing with top-level admirals as witnesses. Denied Starts Investigation.

And Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations, has directed an investigation into the release of the documents. He called this release a grave infraction of regulations.

Crommelin has indicated he expects a court martial, and speculation tonight was that he will get it, although Denfeld had no immediate comment.

The Crommelin disclosure was the second development of the day bearing on the tug-of-war between the Navy and the Air Force. Earlier in the day, the navy announced that Cedric R. Worth, civilian naval official who wrote the now-discredited memo blasting the Air Force's B-36 super bomber program, had quit his job over a month ago.

The navy's disclosure came belatedly a few minutes after the House armed services committee demanded that Worth be fired. The memo, which was circulated anonymously at first, charged that the B-36 was obsolete and that political connivance was responsible for its continued construction. The Worth charges blew up when he recanted some of them publicly.

Gives Out Documents. Capt. Crommelin, wartime carrier skipper, last Monday handed to reporters letters written to Secretary of the Navy Matthews by three admirals. One of them, Vice Admiral Gerald F. Bogan, commander of the first task force in the Pacific, said navy morale has plummeted "almost to despondency" because of policies followed in the Pentagon, U.S. defense headquarters.

Denfeld and Admiral A. W. Radford, commander of the Pacific fleet, appended "forwarding endorsements" praising Bogan. Denfeld later said the endorsements did not mean they approved Bogan's views. At the time Crommelin gave the statements to reporters he stipulated that his name not be used. However, a radio commentator's broadcast tonight had the effect of cancelling the secrecy.

Ray Henle said on his "three star extra" program over NBC: "Tonight we are able to reveal the name of the man who is responsible for the confidential information getting out."

"He is navy Capt. John G. Crommelin."

"He's the same Capt. Crommelin who, some weeks ago, put his 'official life on the block' with sensational charges that present defense plans are ruining the navy and its morale."

Henle explained that he was not bound by any agreement not to make Crommelin's name public.

Crommelin declined comment when contacted tonight.

Plumber Severs Coaxial Cable As He Drives In Pipe

Cleveland, Oct. 5—(AP)—All network television broadcasts between the east coast and midwest were cut off this afternoon (2:47 p.m., CST) when a plumbing contractor here accidentally drove a pipe through the coaxial cable on the city's east side.

The cable is the only link between Cleveland and Philadelphia. Its rupture affects Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Erie, Pa., Buffalo and Rochester, N. Y., as well as Cincinnati, Columbus, Dayton, Toledo and Cleveland, Ohio.

Harvey Butler, news supervisor for the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. here, said service was expected to be resumed before midnight.

Three hundred long distance telephone channels were also affected, but service was switched to alternate routes, Butler said.

Demos Launch Battle As Group Rejects Olds

Washington, Oct. 5—(AP)—The Democratic National committee launched a fight tonight for confirmation of Leland Olds for a third term on the Federal Power commission.

Earlier, the Senate Commerce committee had disregarded a plea from President Truman, voting 10 to 2 to reject Olds's nomination. The Senate still must act.

Democratic Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., disclosed that he has sent telegrams to all members of the national committee and to state chairmen and vice chairmen asking them to let their senators know that "the people want Olds confirmed."

The 10-2 committee vote against Olds—in which Democrats joined Republicans—made it doubtful the senate would confirm Olds.

Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) reported the unfavorable recommendation to the Senate, thus giving the chamber itself an opportunity to vote on the nominee. By its vote the committee upheld a 7 to 0 tally against Olds by a subcommittee.

Administration leaders indicated the Senate probably will not be asked to vote before Monday. Olds was criticized at subcommittee hearings for his radical writings in the 1930s and for his views on federal regulation over the natural gas industry. Olds admitted he wrote radically as a young man but said he did so to shock the people into seeking reforms.

The 58-year-old nominee denied he ever has been a communist or that his writings supported communist philosophies as claimed by his opponents.

Mr. Truman wrote Chairman Johnson (Colo.) and Vice President Barkley yesterday. He said nothing had been disclosed in the testimony which "raises any doubt in my mind as to his (Olds's) integrity, loyalty or ability."

Instead, Mr. Truman said "powerful corporations" are opposing Olds and added that great corporations cannot be allowed to dominate commissions set up to regulate them.

Chairman Johnson (D-Colo.) reported the unfavorable recommendation to the Senate, thus giving the chamber itself an opportunity to vote on the nominee. By its vote the committee upheld a 7 to 0 tally against Olds by a subcommittee.

Premier Queuille Of France Quits

Wage And Price Problems End 13-Month Reign

Paris, Oct. 5—(AP)—Premier Henri Queuille resigned today as a result of wage and price problems growing out of devaluation of the franc. President Vincent Auriol will announce tomorrow whether he will accept the resignation.

Queuille has held together a coalition of radical socialists, socialists and popular republicans for 13 months, the longest life of any French government since the Fourth Republic was formed after the war.

Queuille threw in the sponge when Daniel Mayer, socialist labor minister, wrote what was described by well-informed sources as a virtual ultimatum demanding wage increases for labor well beyond what Queuille was prepared to grant.

The crisis exploded after weeks of bickering over the issue—ever since France devalued the franc from 30 to 28 cent in step with Britain's devaluation of her pound Sept. 18.

Non-communist as well as communist unions have been demanding wage increases or cost-of-living bonuses to compensate for higher prices resulting from devaluation. They have been threatening a 24-hour token strike.

The demands split the cabinet. Mayer and other socialists supported the labor demands. Several of the popular republicans sided with them. Ever since the communists were a serious political threat in France, the socialists have been forced to compete for the labor vote.

Opposed Wage Raises. But the conservative faction of the cabinet, led by the radical socialists, Queuille and Finance Minister Maurice Petesch, opposed wage raises as inflationary.

Last Saturday it was announced a compromise had been agreed upon in the cabinet. It included price reductions of 3 to 10 per cent on a series of basic products and a wage policy which Queuille was to announce in a broadcast tonight.

Queuille proposed to raise "abnormally low" wages only. But last night Mayer wrote the premier a three-page letter refusing to accept that formula.

Without socialist support, Queuille is not able to command a majority in parliament. So he quit.

Dr. Meacham turned to Thomas Hunston, Ravenna hospital superintendent. A pathologist was called in from Akron to test the children's and parents' blood.

In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Strayer called off the baptism of the black-haired lad they called "Michael."

Mrs. Strayer, 20, and a mother for the first time, said, "we'll never feel right about it now."

Mrs. Shanley has two other children, James I. and Veronica, 2.

BRITAIN MUST PRODUCE MORE TO END THE DOLLAR CRISIS

Great Britain evidently is under no illusions that its devaluation of the pound can provide anything but short-run relief in its widely heralded "dollar crisis."

The British expect, of course, that a rise in the volume and worth of its exports to the dollar countries will occur. Unless that happens, the major goal of devaluation will not be achieved.

Yet even if that objective is attained, there is no great hope that the benefits to Britain will be sufficient to serve as a permanent solution of its difficulties.

Sir Stafford Cripps, British chancellor of the exchequer, made plain that the closing of the gap between Britain's exports and imports can only be accomplished in the end by a greatly increased productivity from its workers.

He acknowledged to his country that the decision to devalue the pound was made reluctantly, that Britain would rather have put all its faith on rising productivity and other means of boosting exports. But he concluded: "The time is now so short and our reserves have got so low that a change in the dollar rate of exchange is the only way in which we can get our prices down quickly enough."

There is more to this statement than may at first be apparent. When the dollar conference in Washington wound up, the three participating countries—Britain, Canada and the United States—announced a program designed to cope with the British crisis through both immediate and long-term measures. They voiced guarded optimism over prospects for easing the problem.

It is obvious now that Canada and the United States knew of the British intent to devalue, even while the conference was on. Their optimism therefore may have reflected that knowledge rather than any great enthusiasm for the short-run objectives of the program.

For it is clear from Cripps' statement to the British people that those immediate steps were not counted on heavily by Britain's leaders. They would give the United Kingdom a freer hand in spending Marshall Plan dollars, eliminate U. S. customs red tape, and explore the possibility of heavier American purchases of tin, rubber and other British Empire products that might fit into our stockpiling program.

If these moves actually were to be given great weight, Cripps would not have stressed the nearness of financial disaster when he announced devaluation. He brushed the short-run Washington program aside, and declared that cheapening of the pound was a necessary device to buy time until higher productivity and better selling methods—the long-range goals—could come into play.

Thus devaluation is a bald admission both that the British plight is genuinely urgent and that the only real hope for a permanent solution lies in an earnest, unflinching attack by all interested nations on the problem of restoring a healthy balance in world trade. For Britain and many another country, that balance cannot be attained without the increased economic efficiency of which Sir Stafford spoke.

WATCH FOR THESE AND MANY MORE

All Yours For Less Than $15

During the next four months we will join with other theatres in the Fox Midwest circuit in a 20th Anniversary Fall Film Festival, bringing to our patrons 35 or 40 of the most entertaining motion pictures ever produced. This flow of fine pictures will continue on throughout the 1949-50 season. There is no doubt about it, Hollywood has answered its critics. The answer is, the pictures themselves!

For sheer artistry and variety of subject matter, there has not been so fine a collection of motion pictures in many years. What is more, the reviewers who appraise pictures for 20 million members of national women's organizations rate more than 70 percent of these pictures as suitable for general family patronage.

While the dollar sign is not necessarily the hallmark of quality, we are not exaggerating when we estimate that the time, talent and know-how which went into the making of these 1949-50 pictures, plus production costs and studio overhead, easily add up to 100 million dollars worth of entertainment which movie patrons can enjoy for $15.00 if they see all these pictures at our average admission price.

The titles of the first of these fine movies are listed herewith. But the proof of the pudding is in the eating. We hope you can see them all.

Sincerely yours,
B. M. MONTEE, Manager

Beirut School Aides Arabs

Beirut, Lebanon—(P)—The American University of Beirut has set up a "little Marshall plan" for students among Arab Palestine refugees. The heads of this oldest U. S. educational institution in the Middle East started an educational program last year based on the principle governing the European Recovery Plan—help people to help themselves.

Applicants—who were to receive free education plus allowances for substance—were carefully screened, since the funds were limited. Priority was given to students closest to graduation when the war started. During the 1948-49 school year, the University extended assistance to 234 Palestinian refugee students. University heads are hopeful that their appeals for the program during the coming year will raise enough money to cover expenses and expand the number of students receiving help.

Congregational Church To Show Family Films

As a service to the community of Jacksonville, the film committee of the Pilgrim Memorial Congregational church at West College and Kosciuszko, announces a series of "film classics" which will be presented this fall and winter. The committee has selected some fine films with outstanding performers for the enjoyment of young and old alike.

The fall series will begin Saturday.

Oct. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the church with the showing of Swiss Family Robinson. The rest of the series will be on the following Saturday evenings—Oct. 29, "Enchanted Forest," a recent technicolor film; Nov. 26, "The Last of the Mohicans"; Dec. 17, "Bates in Toyland," appropriate for the Christmas season, in which Shirley Temple stars, with the music of Victor Herbert.

Announcement of the winter series will be made later. The committee expects, however, to include some films from the Museum of Modern Art in New York City.

The committee is organized under the direction of Mrs. Friedrich Engelbach with Dr. Ernest Stowell and will use the new motion picture equipment recently acquired by the church school.

This series is open to the public as it has been indicated that many parents would want to bring their families to see the old and new favorites. Expenses of the series are being met by subscriptions of families and individuals who plan to attend, as it is strictly a non-profit enterprise. Sponsors' certificates may be obtained by calling Mrs. Ernest Stowell or at the first film showing.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services will be held nightly at the Youngblood Baptist church in Nortonville beginning Monday, Oct. 10. The public is invited.

Ways to Save

If you were a Nigerian your "savings" would consist of excess grain which you had accumulated over a period of years and which you would store in a giant mud "igloo." Some years your savings would be so small that you could almost count the number of kernels added to your store . . . but you would save them, nevertheless. It is amazing how fast a small amount, saved regularly, adds up when saved at Jacksonville Savings & Loan Association. All the time you are saving more, your money is earning more for you. That's why it's fun to save at Jacksonville Savings & Loan Association. Stop in and let us explain.

U. S. Buying In Congo Declines

Brussels —(P)—Newly published Belgian Congo trade statistics show the colony to have a trading profit of about $8.2 million during the first quarter of 1949. The Congo's exports are mainly palm oil, tin, copper and iron ore as well as precious stones. Biggest trader was Belgium herself taking 45.5 percent of the exports and providing 40.3 per cent of the imports. American buying slipped from 30.8 per cent of the Congo's exports for 1948 to 25.5 for the same period this year.

Raw Meat Keeps Cats Going

Santa Barbara, Calif. —(P)—Is your cat listless, grouchy, bored with life? If so, you might try on your kitty the diet Daniel A. Sattler feeds his pet. Sattler's cat joined his family as a kitten. That was 20 years ago. And she has amazed the family by remaining frisky despite her old age.

The venerable feline, a centenarian by human standards, "never comes into the house," Sattler says. "She's restless, almost wild. Spends most of her time roaming the neighborhood looking for excitement." Sattler thinks maybe the rugged diet she gets might explain her spryness and longevity. He feeds her regularly: raw beef, raw fish, raw liver, cottage cheese and occasional ly floats an egg or two in her milk bowl.

Egypt Seeks Tourist Trade

Cairo —(P)—Egypt is easing her customs regulations in an effort to attract more tourists—particularly Americans. Henceforth tourists can bring in all personal effects without payment of duty. These include cameras, radios, binoculars and typewriters which formerly were subject to duty. Personal jewelry also is exempted if the tourist signs a statement listing it upon arrival. The same procedure will hold for foods, perfumes and tobacco.

There will be no limit on the amount of gifts and souvenirs manufactured in Egypt which tourists can take out of the country. A special Tourists police force has been set up. Tourists can have escorts from it during their travels, if they desire.

Going to get your $2,064 bait back?

Your shiny new automobile—with prices averaging about $2,064—has to get you a whale of a lot of use to justify its cost.

Winter wear is the worst bait-snatcher. It can strip your car of plenty of service...

Unless you OIL-PLATE it!

1. Oil-Plating—a feature of patented Conoco Nth Motor Oil—performs a wear-preventing miracle by fastening a shield of special lubricant to working parts. OIL-PLATING can't all drain down—even overnight!

2. Always on Guard! Even when the fine lubricating oil itself isn't covering a part, OIL-PLATING is! It protects your engine against grinding "dry-friction" starts... from corrosive combustion acids... from sludge and carbon caused by wear.

3. Watch Out for Winter! The frigid months are the most dangerous months for these car-killers. New and older cars both urgently need Conoco Nth. Don't wait... drive yours in today and armor it against winter with Conoco Nth.

Chapel Speaker Tells Qualities Of Educated Person

Rev. Laren Spear, D.D., pastor of the First Methodist church in Decatur, addressed the student body of MacMurray college during the chapel period Tuesday morning. Rev. Spear spoke on the subject "Some Qualities of an Educated Person," in which he described Sidney Herbert Wood's conception of an educated person: one who can entertain himself; one who can entertain others; and one who can entertain a new idea. The first qualification is concerned with spending one's leisure time and attaining the richness of soul. The second pertains to interest in the welfare of others and the third to one's own mental development. The television receiver is a heavy user of vacuum tubes, requiring 20 or more.

Tommy Henrich's Ninth Inning Homer Gives Yanks 1-0 Win

Blast Ruins Brilliant Pitching Duel Between Reynolds, Newcombe

By Gayle Talbot
New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—"Old Reliable" Tommy Henrich blasted a monstrous home run into the right field seats at Yankee Stadium in the ninth inning today to break up a brilliant pitching duel between Allie Reynolds and Don Newcombe and give the New York Yankees a 1 to 0 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the opening game of the World Series.

TOMMY HENRICH

The first Yankee to face Newcombe in the ninth, Henrich looked at two balls and then slammed the next pitch, a waist high fast ball, on a screaming line into the lower deck over the 344-foot mark.

With the crack of Henrich's bat the crowd of 66,224 jumped to its feet almost as one and gave out a blast that must have ruffled the flag on the centerfield flagpole. There was never a doubt where the ball was going.

The pay-off blast was only the fifth hit off the great negro right-hander, who had struck out 11 of his American league opponents in the eight previous innings. Reynolds, the winner, pitched one of the classics of World Series history in blanking the Dodgers with two widely spaced hits. He struck out nine.

In racking up 20 strikeouts, the two sizzling right-handers came within two of the series record set in the 1944 playoff between the two St. Louis clubs, when Mort Cooper of the Cards whiffed 12 and Denny Galehouse of the Browns 10.

Up to the time of Henrich's drive, the Yankees had not pushed a man past second against the Brooklyn flame-thrower. Only one Dodger saw third off Reynolds, and that was the outgrowth of a pair of walks to open the second inning.

Reynolds Wobbly At Start
Newcombe was at his hottest in the early part of the struggle striking out the Yankee side in the second and fifth innings. Reynolds, the 31-year-old Oklahoma City star of Indian extraction, took the opposite route. He wobbled in the early going, and then, starting in the sixth inning, became a ball of fire.

In the last four chapters the National league champions put only two men on base against the cool variety of curves, sinkers and cool balls served up by the sturdy Yankee. Spider Jorgensen opened the sixth with a walk and died there as Reynolds struck out two to retire the side. Pee Wee Reese singled through the box for Brooklyn's second safety with one down in the eighth, after which Reynolds shot third strikes past Jorgensen and Duke Snider.

Brooklyn's only other hit came in the opening inning, and it was something of a fluke. Jorgensen lifted a skyscraper into left center that looked as though it could have been caught either by Joe DiMaggio or Johnny Lindell. The two Yankee outfielders appeared to become confused, or something, and the ball finally just cleared Lindell's glove and hit the grass lazily for a two-bagger.

Walks Two Dodgers
That was as far as Jorgensen got as Reynolds struck out Duke Snider and got Jackie Robinson on a drive to rightfield. Reynolds walked the first two Dodgers to face him in the second and then were victims of Fireman Joe Page coming at the gallop from the Yankee bullpen.

But Allie tightened, forced Gil Hodges to ground into a double play and retired the dangerous Roy Campanella on a pop to right. That was the last time a Dodger saw third, and one of the last to see any kind of a base.

An error by Rookie second-baseman Jerry Coleman on a simple roller off Carl Furillo's bat, followed a sacrifice and a walk, put Brooks on first and second with one out in the fifth, but Reynolds blazed a third strike past Newcombe and Reese then forced Furillo at third.

Thereafter there was never a question of Pace having to take over. Apparently gaining strength as the tense battle went into the closing innings, Reynolds struck out two in the sixth, two in the seventh and three in the eighth.

Reese slapped his single through the box after Newcombe struck out in the eighth and stole second on Yogi Berra's high throw to Coleman, but the Oklahoma looked terrific in baffling Jorgensen and Snider on third strikes.

Henrich Imitates Stengel
The game was only the second in World Series history won by the score of 1 to 0 on a home run. By coincidence, Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks clouted the other batter to win a tight one for the New York Giants over the Yankees in the 1923 play-off of winners of the two Titanic socks said they landed at just about the same point in the stadium.

This was a tough one for Newcombe to lose. The 235-pound, 25-year-old negro rookie, who won 17 games after reporting to Brooklyn late in May, had blinding speed and a sharp curve that tied the Yanks in knots up to the time Henrich took things in hand.

Of the four hits off Newcombe which preceded the big one, two were by Reynolds himself. In the third inning the pitcher lofted a lazy fly to left which fell for a double because Gene Hermanski had posted himself far over toward centerfield in the belief that Reynolds couldn't pull the ball to left.

Reynolds also punched a single between third and short to open the sixth, but for the second time his mates were totally incapable of advancing him.

Johnny Lindell and Coleman continued the two other Yank hits. Johnny thumped a change of pace pitch cleanly into left for a single with one down in the second inning and died there as Billy Johnson and Cliff Mapes swung futilely at third strikes.

When Coleman pushed a double down the right field line with one out in the eighth, the Dodgers gathered around Newcombe and asked him how he felt. The huge freshman wiped his brow in serious concentration, and replied by claiming Reynolds as his 11th strikeout victim and forcing little Phil Rizzuto to left to center.

Gives Henrich Fast Curve
And that was all that had happened this hazy afternoon until Henrich, one of the truly fine players of the present era, laced into Don's third throw in the ninth. Newcombe insisted his big mistake was a curve ball, but if so, it was a very fast curve.

The way Reynolds manhandled the Dodger lineup made it simple for Stengel to name Vic Raschi, another right-handed control pitcher, as his starter in tomorrow's second game. A 21-game winner and hero

ISD Squad Travels To Waverly For Game Tonight

Art Yates' rejuvenated ISD football squad hits the trail tonight. The Tigers move to Waverly where they'll tangle with Carroll Lowe's so-far successful Scottie eleven in a game slated to get underway at 8:00 p.m.

The weekend coach announced by telephone yesterday evening that he would stick with the same lineup that shut out Petersburg 15-0 last Saturday afternoon. The only possible change will alternate Gilbert Paul and Ray Hedmerson at right halfback.

Carlstedt Leads Tigers
On a strong forward wall, led by Tackle Irvin Carlstedt, rest most of ISD's chances for victory. Carlstedt, 175 pound, senior lineman, is the pride of the weekend. Playing tackle on both offense and defense, he just about leads his team in scoring. To date, he has racked up two safeties and booted two extra points. Could the touchdowns that he has saved with his daring shoe-string tackles be added to his total, he would surpass any backfield ace in the state.

Jerry Tuchman will team with Carlstedt at the other tackle. Jim Villani, sure-handed pass snarer, and Teddy Zuziak will guard the Tiger flanks; Don Merriman and Robert Leiberger are guards and Doyle West will start at center.

Waverly Has Sharp Passer
The Waverly gang will undoubtedly throw a heavy passing attack at the Yanks' crew. Dale Mitchell heaves the pigskin with more accuracy than most. His strong right arm whipped Roodhouse practically single-handed in Waverly's grid inaugural. Since the Roodhouse victory, Waverly has plowed under two victims, their last win coming against Auburn, 19-12, in an M.S.M. tussle.

Tonight's game will be the record play-off for the Jacksonville athletes. They now hold a showing of one victory and one defeat.

Football Briefs
Illini On Pass Defense
Champaign, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Illinois' pass defense got another overhauling and long workout here today against anticipated Iowa football maneuvers.

Aldo Martignago, Rose Bowl veteran, moved into the first string defensive line, alternating with another senior, Chuck Gottfried. Johnny Karras, halfback, moved back into the safety spot and Sam Piazza, his running mate on the offensive unit, also played defense, paired with Paul Douglas at the halfback posts.

Irish Stage Drills
South Bend, Ind., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Notre Dame will be seeking its third straight win of the football season against Purdue Saturday, but Irish Coach Frank Leahy still is uncertain over his regular left halfback.

of Sunday's flag clincher against the Boston Red Sox, Raschi can be counted upon to show the Brooks a great deal more of what they tried to see today.

For the National leaguers it will be their veteran leftfielder, the skinny Elwin "Preacher" Roe, who won 15 during the season and turned in several telling victories in crucial series down the stretch. It was widely felt prior to the start of the play-off that Roe would give the Yanks more trouble than Newcombe, but that seems unlikely at this point.

Augie Eleven Looms As Contender In CCI

The Little Nine Conference got underway auspiciously as the Augustana Vikings defeated the favored Illinois Wesleyan Titans 15-6 at Rock Island. Topping the conference champs put Augustana in the limelight as a possible successor.

The Vikings with a victory over Elmhurst are boasting a two won no loss C.C.I. record but will not be in conference play until October 22, when they meet North Central in Rock Island.

Wheaton College overcame a sub-born Carthage eleven to win 18-0. The Crusaders scored twice in the final period. Wheaton plays a non-conference game with Elmhurst on their home field this coming Saturday.

North Central Here Saturday
An important game in the C.C.I. race will be North Central's invasion of Illinois College at Jacksonville this coming Saturday. Illinois College was a 27-6 winner over Principia of the Pioneer League last Saturday. North Central bounced back from its defeat by Knox College to outlast Central College of Peoria, Iowa 18-14, in a thriller played in Peoria.

Lake Forest playing under a new coach, John Breen, will make its conference debut playing Carthage at Carthage. Lake Forest lost its opener to Beloit 34-21.

James Millikin University still seeking their first win played Western Illinois at Macomb. The Big Blue lost to Illinois Normal 13-0 last Saturday.

Smarting after their reversal by the Augustana Vikings, Wesleyan entertains Washington Univ. of St. Louis at Bloomington. The game will provide more than a workout as the Titans point for their game with Wheaton on Oct. 15 in a game to be played at Wheaton's homecoming.

Undefeated Augustana takes on Luther College in a game to be played at Decorah, Iowa.

Michigan, Cadets To Meet In Battle Of Grid Winners

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 5.—(AP)—It's a battle of winners here Saturday as Michigan and Army meet in the number one football game of the weekend grid card.

Michigan, voted the top team in the land by Associated Press sports editors, will match its 25-game winning streak with a Cadet string that has extended 13 games without a defeat.

Long sold out, the Wolverine stadium will be jam packed with fans as Michigan tries for its 26th consecutive victory to tie the modern college record, established by Cornell in 1921-24.

Coach Earl (Red) Blaik's Army squad is relying on fast-breaking T-formation plays, over-all team speed and the passing combination of Arnold Galiffa and Dan Foldsberg to topple the long victorious Wolverines.

It Looked Good So I Hit It, Says Henrich

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Tommy Henrich pushed his cap back and scratched his head. There was a puzzled look on his face as he said: "I don't know what kind of a pitch it was that I hit. I think it was either a fast ball or a slider. Anyway it looked pretty good, so I hit it."

Henrich had just broken up a tense world series pitching duel between Allie Reynolds and Don Newcombe by belting Newcombe's third pitch in the ninth inning for a game-winning home run.

In the dressing room, the Yankee first baseman was doing his best to live up to his nickname of "The Old Pro." He wasn't showing much excitement and was doing his best to analyze the game.

"I never saw a world series game that had the pitchers so much in charge," Tommy continued. "The players on our bench all were saying that Newcombe gave them very few good ones to hit. He really was the boss and so was Reynolds."

Reynolds Also Calm
Reynolds, who shut out the Dodgers with two hits, was taking his first world series victory just as calmly. He posed giving Henrich a big hug for the benefit of photographers. Then, still wearing a jacket over his uniform, he explained:

"No, I didn't have as much stuff today as I had the other day against Boston. But I just couldn't find the plate then. Today I had good control. I wasn't missing the plate by much. I threw some curves and sliders and used a slow curve on some fellows. Yogi and I mixed them up pretty well."

In the middle of the quiet room Catcher Larry (Yogi) Berra confirmed the pitcher's observations about control and added that Reynolds had pitched a curve when Brooklyn's Spider Jorgensen drove a foul into the stands that just missed being a home run.

Over on the other side Vic Raschi, named to pitch tomorrow, was muttering, "what a ball game!" And Joe DiMaggio, still weak from his recent illness, was telling reporters: "I stood up for nine innings; that's regulation."

Stengel Is Congratulated

In his private office, Manager Casey Stengel looked as if he had been working harder than the players. As he cooled off and accepted congratulations from his bosses, Del Webb and Dan Topping, Stengel commented:

"I had been taking Reynolds out all along about the seventh inning this season but today I decided to wait until he weakened. I didn't even have anybody warmed up when I might have put in a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. But Joe Page was my man, of course. I did have Fred Sanford warm up when they had two men on bases in the fifth."

Just outside the door of Stengel's office, Coaches Bill Dickey and Jim Turner were kidding Berra about his throwing arm—the only Dodger attempt to steal second today was successful.

"They'll try to run on you tomorrow," Turner warned. "You just watch."

"Yeah," Dickey interrupted. "But when they only get two hits they don't get much chance to run."

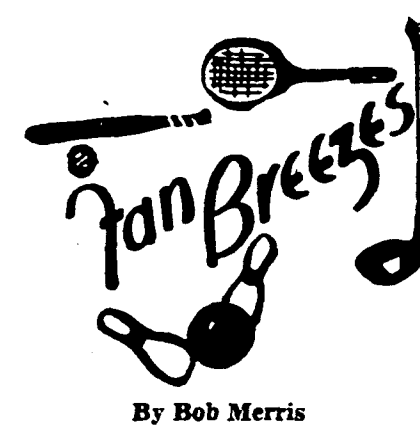

"OLD POISON"
New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Tommy Henrich is strictly poison to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Henrich, who homered in the ninth inning today to give the New York Yankees a 1-0 victory over the Dodgers in the first game of the 1949 world series, always has been a pain to the Dodgers.

Exactly eight years ago today, Oct. 5, 1941, Henrich struck out in the ninth inning at Brooklyn for what appeared to be the final out of the game but Catcher Mickey Owen dropped the ball and Henrich reached first safely. The Yanks promptly teed off and scored four runs to win the game, 7-4.

The next day the Yanks beat the Dodgers, 3-1, to take the series, four games to one. One of the Yank runs was a home run by Henrich.

A home run by Henrich helped the Yanks win the second game of the 1947 series against the Dodgers. Tommy led off the fifth inning with a homer to give the Yanks a 4-2 lead. The Yanks went on to win, 10-3.

By Bob Merris

He's a must on every football squad. That sturdy gent who runs the second-string, scrubs, cannon-fodder, etc., against the first team in order that the much-publicized big boys may polish up their tactics to better represent the dear old Alma Mater.

It's hard for this corner to write about such athletes and not poetic with such phrases as "unsung hero," "the player behind the player" or cruder, "the whipping boy."

Bob Scheller—second string quarterback on Al Miller's college grid roster—fills the bill in every mentioned capacity, and more too. He's the guy that has to learn every offensive formation that opposing teams will use so that he may "test pilot" the reserves in simulated game drills against the big boys.

The Rocket's second win was at the expense of the Franklin club, 33-19. Meredosa owns a 26-18 victory over Franklin and dumped Chandler 36-8 last Thursday night.

Routt Coach Stroud has slightly revised his lineup to meet the invading Indians from the river valley.

"Hinky" Henry, who has been doing a good job at center all season, was converted into a halfback. Jim Flynn, Henry's substitute on defense, will fill the center spot going both ways tonight.

Lonerang Won't Start For Rockets
The Rockets were hard hit in the backfield when they learned that Halfback Sonny Lonerang, their leading ground-gainer, will not be able to start the fracas. Lonerang jammed his hand against Franklin Saturday afternoon. He may be used occasionally, Stroud reports.

Otherwise, the east-side lineup is about the same. Dick Casler and Billy Kaufmann are at ends. A. J. Spreen will guide the offense from quarterback and Jack Murphy will run from the other halfback. Because of Lonerang's absence from the lineup, Stroud confides that several of his younger backs will be tested against Meredosa.

The Jacksonville defenders will be facing a Meredosa gang that sports a better-than-average passing and running attack. Joe Newman—hustly six-footer—carried the ball brilliantly on occasion against Chandlerville last week. Dick Simon, quarterback, throws short passes with accuracy and his cousin, Tony, at the other halfback, is a demon on end runs.

Game Time Is 8 P.M.
Northrup, Indian left end, handles the pass-catching department while Tedger and Walker bulwark the Dosh line on defense.

Kick-off time is set for 8 p.m. tonight at the JHS field.

There's more than a football game at stake when Paul Stroud's Routt six-man outfit clashes with Meredosa on the Jacksonville high school gridiron tonight. The two sextets each own a record of two wins and zero losses in the 2-C six-man football conference. Tied for first place in the league, the clubs will be battling to retain that top spot.

For the team that loses will surely sink so far as conference standings are concerned. Meredosa and Routt—already conceded first place by the other loop entrants—have only each other to whip to decide who's champion.

Bums Praise Reynolds; Console Newcombe

By Ted Smits
New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Don Newcombe, a pitcher who came close to world series immortality, sagged down his 235 pounds in the Dodgers' dressing room and pressed his resinated finger and thumb against the bridge of his nose to hold back the tears.

"Reynolds pitched a helluva ball game," he said in a voice so low it could scarcely be heard.

The Brooklyn Dodger dressing room was deadly quiet.

Jackie Robinson, standing nude close to the despondent Newcombe, joined in praising Yankee Allie Reynolds.

"You can't get runs when you face pitching like that," said Jackie. Newcombe whispered that it was a curve that Tommy Henrich belted for the decisive ninth inning home run—"a curve ball, a good pitch."

Newcombe said he didn't know that the world series record for strikeouts was 13, set by Howard Ehmke in 1929, and that he was only two short of it.

A few men came up and clapped unless I have to."

CANADA GETS WARMER

Calgary—(AP)—One of the world's slowest-action "thermometers" has indicated that the Canadian climate, in western Canada at least, has been milder than normal. The thermometer is a number of glaciers in the Canadian Rockies and "readings" have been taken by survey parties, armed with transits.
W. T. McFarlane, Calgary civil engineer, said after the recent survey that the rate of recession of five Alberta glaciers since 1945 has averaged 100 feet a year. Measurement of the movement of the glaciers was started by the Canadian government in 1945. McFarlane said there is no indication, however, that the glaciers will continue to recede. Geologists have reported that glaciers in other parts of the world made periodic advances and retreats with changes in climate. Each cycle is said to last about 35 years.

Someone to Love

By IRENE LONNEN ERNHART Copyright, 1949, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Tod Duncan is unable to forget Liz Conover, even though he has married Jenny. And Jenny is not as happy as she should be. Tod took her first to live with his family, but there is a trailer camp while he finishes schooling. Jenny discovers she is to become a mother. Tod meets an old chum, Rick Morris, who unexpectedly mentions Liz Conover. Jenny tells Rick that Tod married her. Later Rick advises Tod to forget Liz. Next Tod's mother, who dislikes Jenny, calls Tod and asks him to come to see her—but not to bring Jenny.

XV
AFTER his first visit, Tod fell into the habit of going to see Ma and Harriet and Joe once a week. When he came back from one of those visits he was always upset and restless.

Jenny felt better physically now and made a special effort to overlook his moodiness. He was studying hard these days, with mid-term exams not too far away. Saturday nights they usually tried to have someone in. Rick and Nina to play bridge, and occasionally the Hansens from next door. Although the Hansens bored Tod.

Fred Hansen was in one of Tod's classes. He was a small, bespectacled fellow with sandy hair and faded blue eyes. His wife Ruth was plump, vivacious and friendly. They always put their baby to bed in their own trailer when they came over, and every time Ruth was dumpy she trotted over to see that it was all right. She was delighted when she learned Jenny was expecting, and went into all the details of her own pregnancy. Tod was disturbed and for a time he treated Jenny with anxious concern. Jenny laughed at him. And presently he got over it.

There were other urgent matters to be concerned about. The $500 they'd gotten for the summer cottage would last through December, but after that something would have to be done.

Then Ma phoned Tod one Saturday evening. Rick and Nina were there playing bridge when the man from the trailer camp office knocked on the door. Ma had refused to call back and was holding the line.

When Tod returned to the trailer, he was grimly uncommunicative. Joe was in some sort of trouble, and he had to go at once. It was 10 before he returned. Rick and Nina had gone and he told Jenny the news. Joe had embezzled $800.

"It's a lucky thing he got caught before he was in any deeper," Tod said.

"But $800!" Jenny cried. "I can't understand how he could have embezzled that much in such a short time."

"He bet on the races. He got in over his head and kept borrowing, like they always do, thinking next time he'd get a big winner and pay it back. Only it didn't work out that way, and today his boss wised up."

Jenny's mouth trembled. "Why should you and I shoulder the responsibility for keeping Joe out of jail?"

"He's my brother. That's why. Ma's had a hard enough time all these years trying to raise us kids, and anyway Joe never had much chance to amount to anything. Ma put everything on me, helping me at college and all. I hate it as much as you do, but Ma said—"

"I don't care what Ma said!" Jenny burst out wildly.

"You don't like her, do you?" Now it was Tod who was angry. "All along I been tryin' to tell her how wrong she was about you, how she'd like you if she'd give you half a chance, but maybe I've been wrong. Maybe she senses how you feel about her and that's the reason she resents you so."

THEY faced each other furiously. "If I don't like her it's her own fault! I wanted to get along, but you know the reception I got—"

"That's not got anything to do with this!" Tod shouted.

"But where are you going to get $800?"

He spoke in a defeated tone now, no longer strident with anger. "I wrote the guy a check. I'll have to sell the car. It's the only thing we've got that can be turned into cash."

Tod must have given up the car. She remembered his almost childish pride in it when he had bought it last spring.

But the car was the only thing they could turn into immediate cash. It seemed like pouring money down a rat hole to get Joe out of this jam, for it was probably only the beginning.

Yet, remembering that Joe had been the only one of the Duncans that had shown her the least kindness when she and Tod had been living with them, she hated to demand that Tod refuse to help.

Tod got a good price for the car because it was practically new, but when $800 was deducted, there wasn't much left. Worse than spending the money to get Joe out of a jam, was Tod's sense of divided allegiance which tore him between Ma and Jenny.

JOE left town and Ma was upset about that. If he missed going to see her she phoned the trailer camp, petulantly demanding why. Tod's visits to her dingy foul-smelling little walk-up apartment were anything but pleasant. Ma seemed to keep him discontented and riled up.

They quarreled one night, when Ma found out Jenny was going to have a baby, and Ma said a lot of hateful things. And when Tod tried to defend Jenny, she screamed at him. "All right, go ahead, stick up for Jenny. But you don't love her. Sooner or later you'll come to your senses."

He slammed out of the apartment. He walked to the corner in the brisk November air, and the anger gradually died out of him. How did Ma know? Could Jenny tell too?

He turned his back to the wind and started walking.

Rain Stymies Paving, But Helps The Farms

The first of the traditional fall rains descended on Jacksonville late Wednesday afternoon. It soon turned into a steady rain. September precipitation was only a little more than half the normal for the period.

Most of the bountiful soybean crop is already in the bin, and not much corn picking has begun. The new moisture will be helpful on newly-seeded wheat fields, or to land that will be planted to the crop soon.

Very few people came to the downtown business area last night. They were content to stay home. Mud accumulated on the city's loop sidewalks and floor coverings of business houses lost all claims to cleanliness.

Basements of business houses located along the turn-up sidewalks were flooded early in the evening. The volume of water increased during the night, rising as high as three feet in some basements by midnight.

Our Saviour's Preclinicals Host To Party

"Come to the Stable" was the theme of the after-theatre party which was given by the preclinicals of Our Saviour's school of nursing.

It was held in the playroom of the nurses' home following the first evening show Tuesday.

The celebration may not be held until early in November. The date depends much on the weather and the progress farmers make in getting the crop out of the fields.

One purpose of the planned affair is to make enough money to pay for lights needed to illuminate the softball diamond. At least $800, and perhaps more, will be required to buy and install the fixtures.

The Jaycees hope to pay for it through the sale of corn gleaned from harvested fields, corn that would go to waste otherwise. Schools and clubs will be asked to furnish personnel to pick up the lost ears. The corn will be sold and the proceeds turned into the lighting fund.

More Fields Desired

Farmers who desire to participate in the community betterment project are asked to leave word at Hopkin's drug store.

Mayor Hierman and Cass county Sheriff Nick Long have given permission for the erection of a crib near the square for storage of the gleaned corn. The square dance to be held on the square. Admission to the dance will be either grain or currency which ever is more convenient. There will be popcorn, hot dogs, cider, and other things to make this a gala event symbolic of the season.

Study Lighting Costs

Guests of the local club were Joe Loring and Mr. Keely representing the C.I.P.S. company. They presented blue prints of a minimum standard lighted softball field and a general discussion was held. M. M. Craft and Supt. Elsa Myers were present and they outlined the plans for the grounds on which the lights are to be installed. It will be necessary to keep the poles clear of the track. This is to be worked out and plans will swing into the last phase of completion of this field by next May.

John Schaeffer was appointed by President Frisch to check into the possibility of obtaining suitable reflectors from an ordnance plant.

The contract price of lighting this field with eight poles and the minimum of lights is estimated to be $1200, but this amount can be reduced by cutting labor costs and the possibility of obtaining some of the equipment at a smaller amount. It is believed it can be reduced to a figure of approximately $700 or $800.

Pigs Grow Faster When Creep-Fed, But Gains Vary

Urbana—The ration you feed your sows while they're nursing their pigs makes a big difference in whether or not it's a good idea to creep-feed your pigs this fall.

J. L. Krieger, animal scientist at the Illinois College of Agriculture, said Wednesday if your sows were fed a poor ration after farrowing, their pigs will make faster gains on less feed if you creep-feed them.

But if the sows had a good ration after farrowing, you'll gain little or nothing from creep-feeding the pigs.

During three tests, creep-fed pigs averaged 12 per cent faster gains and ate 20 per cent less feed than those not creep-fed. But the sows of both groups received a poor ration of ear corn, full-fed twice daily with minerals and rye pasture.

In two other tests when the sows were fed a good ration, there was almost no advantage in creep-feeding. The good ration for sows in this experiment was shelled corn and supplement, self-fed on either rye or bromegrass-bluegrass pasture.

Even though sows are on good rations, Krieger still recommends creep-feeding under three conditions: (1) when many sows and litters are running together, making it more dangerous for the pigs; (2) when sows are hand-fed in groups; and (3) when sows are fed limited rations and the pigs are thus prevented from getting enough supplementary feeds.

2 Navy Veterans Break Endurance Record In Flight

Yuma, Ariz., Oct. 5.—(P)—Two navy veterans—Bob Woodhouse and Woody Jongeward—shattered the world endurance flight record at 7:15 p.m. (MST)—(8:15 p.m., CST) tonight.

The two pilots sailed past the old mark of 1,008 hours without a falter and reaffirmed their plans by radio to stay up one more week, until Oct. 12, Columbus Day.

An estimated crowd of 10,000 persons jammed the Yuma county airport to be on hand when the flyers reached their goal.

During the day Woodhouse and Jongeward received a congratulatory telegram from Dick Riedel of Fullerton, Calif., one of the previous record holders. He wished them luck and said "keep her flying."

Riedel teamed with Bill Barris, also of Fullerton, to set the old 1,008 hour mark last spring.

Both Yuma endurance flyers have reported increasing difficulty with leg cramps and aching knee joints during the past few days. They are confined in an area four by six by four and one-half feet.

Prince Goes Home But It's Jail Now

Vienna, Oct. 5.—(P)—Prince Adolf Auerberg, scion of an old Austrian family, was arrested Sunday by military police because the tail light of his automobile was not working. He was taken to the U. S. provost marshal's office.

The prince looked the place over and smilingly told an American sergeant it looked like a nice place to have headquarters.

"You can have this old dump any time," the sergeant told him.

The prince wished he could. The office is in Auerberg palace, his family home, requisitioned by the Americans in 1945.

'Unavoidable' Accident Found Cause Of Death

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Mrs. Jeanette Lajeunesse, 42 year old St. Louis woman who died at Passavant hospital Monday morning, determined Wednesday evening that she died of injuries sustained in an "unavoidable" automobile-truck collision.

The driver of the truck, Arthur Stratton of Palmyra, was specifically exonerated of all blame.

Another Morgan county jury, which met in Waverly Tuesday evening, returned a similar verdict when it investigated the deaths of the two other Missouri women who were killed in the same highway crash on Route 111, south of Waverly, Sunday morning.

Last night's jury read statements given before the Waverly jury and heard three witnesses: Deputy Sheriff L. L. Edlen Stratton, and Kenneth Grimmer of Palmyra, Stratton's employer.

A certificate prepared by Dr. A. H.

Wolfe was also read to the jury. It disclosed that Mrs. La Jeunesse died of shock, a crushed chest and multiple abdominal injuries.

Members of the jury here were Albert Teaters, foreman, Agnes McGibson, Constance B. Smith, Marion Arisman, Ruth M. Wardle and Andrew J. Cobb.

Mrs. Nancy Schindler was the inquest stenographer.

Operate On Girl To Help Prevent Pneumonia Attacks

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—(P)—Martha Redwine, 8, of Mt. Vernon, Ill., was reported recovering nicely today from an operation last week that physicians hope will prevent her from having recurring cases of pneumonia.

Martha has been ill with pneumonia 17 times in recent years.

Doctors at St. Louis Children's hospital, where the operation took place, explained a ring of arteries had constricted the girl's windpipe.

They said she could inhale normally, but that her exhaling had been blocked so that poisons usually released from the lungs remained in her system.

Martha is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nash Redwine.
